6.CONCLUSION

ConclusionColleges and universities are dynamic places, and risk-inducing contro-versies that have either a direct or indirect influence on faculty employ-ment are never far away, especially on campuses that are large and diverse. In effect, these institutions are moving targets that have the attention of a large group of stakeholders, including administrators, fac-ulty, staff, students, sports fans, benefactors, and alumni, not to mention taxpayersand all three branches of the state and federal governments. The phrase “never a dull moment” is apropos to U.S. institutions of higher learning.

7.FUTURE SCOPE

Over the years, several types of research have been conducted to determine how Indians feel about their education system and to solicit suggestions on how it can be improved. As it turns out, most Indian citizens are rather satisfied with the type of education that is provided in our country.

On the global front, India’s education industry holds a pivotal place. After all, India has one of the largest networks of higher education institutions in the world!
